

REV EXPLORATION ACQUIRES PERMITS IN SASKATCHEWAN FOR NATURAL HYDROGEN EXPLORATION

VANCOUVER, British Columbia, May 15, 2025: REV Exploration Corp. (“REV” or the “Company”) (TSXV: REXX), formerly Gitennes Exploration, is pleased to announce the Company has acquired permits in Saskatchewan covering 372,571 hectares (3,726 sq. km), allowing for Natural Hydrogen exploration across highly prospective ground in the southern and north-central parts of the province (these permits are specifically referred to by the government as “Helium and Associated Gases” permits).

Jordan Potts, REV Exploration CEO, commented: “Our team has carried out incredible work, based on extensive scientific research, to identify large areas of Saskatchewan with strong potential for hosting accumulations of naturally occurring hydrogen gas. This is a rapidly emerging subset of the resource sector as the race intensifies to identify the first commercial concentration of Natural Hydrogen in the earth’s subsurface in North America.”

Mr. Potts continued: “Saskatchewan has Canada’s most advanced policy framework for Natural Hydrogen exploration and development. This fact, combined with unique geology and a growing market for hydrogen in the province, gives REV Exploration exposure to what management believes will be a catalyst-rich period for the Company and its shareholders in this space over the coming months. We look forward to rolling out our broader Natural Hydrogen strategy for Western Canada over the course of the coming weeks.”
